Assessment Criteria

Written production · Type 1

EN

Pragmatic competences
Situation: • Fulfils the mission set by the scenario and respects the required format. • Respects the required length (150–200 words). • Generally uses a register appropriate to the situation. Content: • Provides the expected information. • Provides, in a relevant way, the information taken from the documents as required by the instructions. • Can describe a real or imagined event. Coherence: • Structures and links their discourse by connecting ideas with a limited range of linguistic devices to mark logical relationships (conjunctions, connectors, adverbs). • The main points are explained with reasonable precision. • Can structure discourse into different thematic sections. • Layout and punctuation are used appropriately and, most of the time, aid comprehension.	10 points
Linguistic competences
Syntax and grammatical accuracy: • Has a good command of simple, everyday structures; complex sentences are still being acquired. • Can convey information and express cause and purpose. • Has sufficient command of grammar for the overall meaning to remain clear. • Has good control of the most frequent complex grammatical forms, although these show little variety. • Errors do not impede understanding of the discourse. Lexis: • Uses basic vocabulary appropriate to the task. • Can use circumlocution to make themselves understood. • Reuses vocabulary from the documents. • Spelling is accurate enough to be followed easily.	10 points

Translated from the French original with Claude · Espace Langues, Université Sorbonne Paris Nord · CC BY-NC-SA 4.0